J-W seeks essays about 9-11's effects ... Friday, August 25, 2006
@ http://www2.ljworld.com/news/2006/aug/25/jw_seeks_essays_about_911s_effects/

Terrorists struck the United States in a series of coordinated attacks five years ago on Sept. 11, 2001.

Since then, the nation has become involved in the Iraq war and safety measures have increased in parts of the world. Has the day made the nation stronger or are we more vulnerable? Has it changed how we THINK and go about our daily lives?

At the 1997 Faculty and Staff Convocation,

Chancellor Hemenway announced a strategic planning process called Initiative 2001.

He cited two years of campus-wide discussions about KU's future, including a roundtable of 30 faculty, staff and students who tried to assess what is unique about KU's Lawrence campus during the spring of 1997

Transition economies pose unique challenges to multinational firms. The 'liability of foreignness', the costs multinational firms face in operating in a foreign country, is greater in transition than in other countries.

The theme of the Hanoi Conference encompasses all aspects of multinational firm activity in transition economies.

The conference theme explores the challenges managers face in transition economies; how managers respond to those challenges; and measures managerial successful in meeting the challenges.
